FOUR WAYS TO DIVE INTO AN EXCITING NEW CAREER

ACUSTIC WARFARE ANALYST

LISTEN UP! CAREER:
 You'll be part of the team that monitors our most sensitive systems in the field against a hidden class of submarine. As an Acoustic Warfare Analyst, you'll be responsible for detecting, identifying and classifying hostile submarines. You'll be working with the most advanced technology in the world to detect, track and identify hostile submarines in the ocean and provide intelligence to the Navy. You'll be working with the most advanced technology in the world to detect, track and identify hostile submarines in the ocean and provide intelligence to the Navy.

CRYPTOLOGICAL SYSTEMS

A FULL SPECTRUM OF SKILLS AND EXPERIENCE
 As a Cryptological Systems Analyst, you'll be responsible for monitoring and analyzing electronic signals, intercepting and decoding messages. You'll be working with the most advanced technology in the world to detect, track and identify hostile submarines in the ocean and provide intelligence to the Navy. LIFE ABOARD AND BELOW THE SURFACE

Most people don't realize that you're not always at sea as a submariner. While you'll do your job as a member of a crew on board at sea, you'll also spend time working ashore at a Navy base, attending training or project work. You'll also travel to many parts of Australia and leave annually.

GETTING YOUR DOLPHINS
 If you're looking for a special job, being a submariner is something special to be a submariner. Once you're there, you'll find there's a special bond between you and the other men and women who have achieved this goal.

LIFE ABOARD
 The best thing about being a submariner is that it's much quieter than on a surface ship. You'll work in watches, doing your job and other interesting secondary duties and spend time off duty. There's plenty of sleeping, studying, TV/recreation, games and exercise to do that has created a day and lots of ways to enjoy the job in 24/7.
